On March 9 & 10, the first Transnational face-to-face meeting of the partners of the project SUSEDI: Route to Transformation of Educational Institutions through a Whole Institution Approach to Sustainability (Erasmus+, KA2, Forward-Looking) took place with great success.

SUSEDI, is an innovative project, which aims at the holistic transformation of Educational Institutions of all levels of education, using the Whole Institution Approach (WIA), into sustainable organizations, acting through their social and pedagogical role, but also through the role they can play as model organizations.

The hosting and organization of the meeting was undertaken by the MMC team, which, apart from being a partner, is also the coordinator and initiator of the project. The meeting took place at MMC's headquarters in Nicosia, where both project partners from abroad and education partners from Cyprus, such as the Pedagogical Institute and Frederick University, were present.

During the two-day event, the partners had the opportunity to meet each other for the first time, exchange views and discuss issues related to the progress and management of the project. In particular, the foundations were laid for the development of the systemic framework for the holistic sustainability of Educational Institutions, on which the future actions of the project will be based, which was the main objective of the meeting.
